

BP Financial Performance Analysis Report (2021–2024)

By : Maab altayeb

Data analyst

June-2026

Introduction

This report provides a financial performance and strategic analysis of BP's stock during the period from 2021 to 2024. The objective of this analysis is to provide investors and stakeholders with a precise and clear overview of the stock's market value development, focusing on three key pillars:

- Price Trends: Examining the general trajectory of the stock and its market value evolution over the past three years.
- Stability Analysis: Assessing volatility levels and the stock's stability following the market fluctuations observed globally.
- Market Dynamics: Understanding the relationship between investor activity (trading volume) and significant price movements, and identifying the days that witnessed substantial market reactions.

This report is based on the processing of the company's historical data, transformed into visual performance indicators using Business Intelligence (Power BI) techniques, allowing for conclusions based on empirical data to support informed investment decision-making.

Methodology

This analysis employed a systematic approach to processing BP's financial data for the period from 2021 to 2024. The process encompassed the following steps:

1. Data Collection and Preparation: Historical stock price time series were collected, cleaned, and enhanced with new analytical variables, specifically "Daily Change" and "Volatility Range."
2. Statistical Analysis: Arithmetic means were calculated for Adjusted Close prices and volatility levels to ensure the accuracy of insights and to filter out noise resulting from minor daily fluctuations.
3. Data Visualization: The Power BI platform was utilized to build an interactive dashboard, enabling the correlation of price movements with trading volume and tracking performance across quarters and years, thereby facilitating the extraction of actionable conclusions.

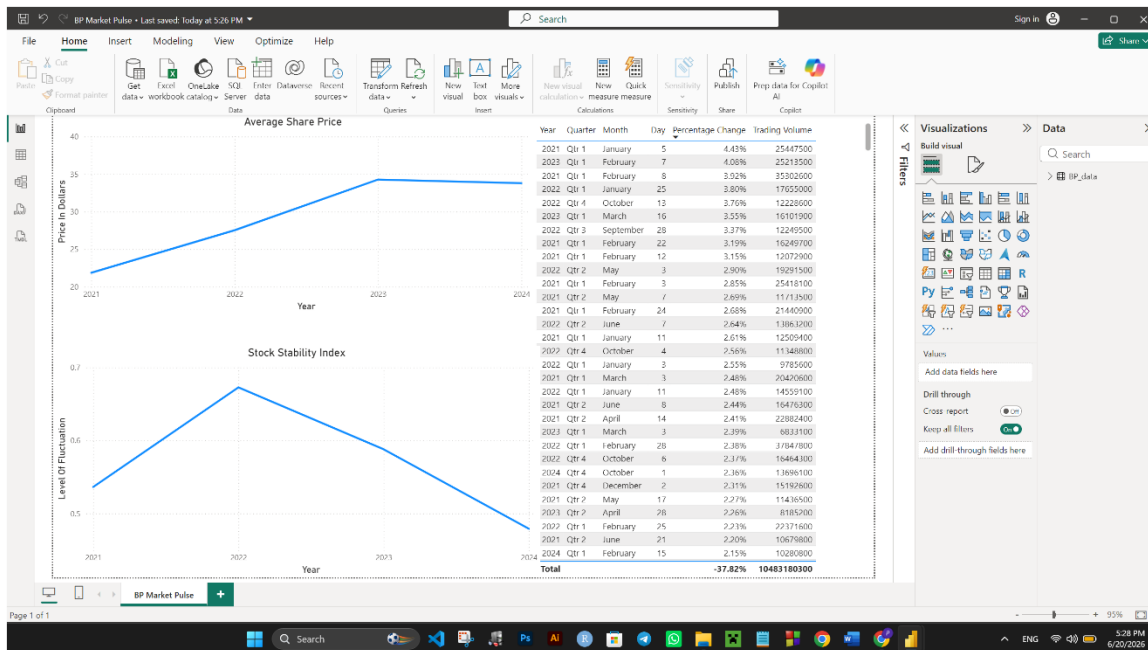

Key Findings

In this section, we address our research questions based on the analyzed data:

- Q1: What is the general trend of BP's stock value?
 - Analysis: The Average Share Price chart demonstrates a consistent upward trajectory since 2021.
 - Conclusion: The stock exhibits long-term strategic growth, enhancing its appeal as an investment asset with cumulative value.
- Q2: How has the stock's stability changed over the years?
 - Analysis: The Stock Stability Index indicates that 2022 was the peak year for volatility, followed by a significant decline in fluctuation rates leading up to 2024.
 - Conclusion: The company has transitioned from a phase of market uncertainty to financial stability, effectively reducing operational risks for investors.
- Q3: What is the relationship between trading volume and price movements?
 - Analysis: The Trading Volume & Change table reveals a positive correlation between price spikes and increased trading volume.
 - Conclusion: Positive price movements are not random; they are supported by strong demand and intensive trading activity in the market.

Conclusion & Recommendations

- The financial analysis of BP for the period (2021–2024) confirms that the company is in a robust and stable upward trajectory. The combination of consistent share price growth and decreasing volatility levels reflects growing market confidence in the company’s long-term strategy.

- Recommendations:

1. For Investors: It is recommended to Hold or Buy the stock, given its sustainable growth and the reduced risks associated with price fluctuations in 2024.
2. For Management: Focus should be maintained on sustaining current trading volume levels, as they are the primary catalyst supporting the stock's market strength.
3. For Future Monitoring: It is recommended to update this dashboard quarterly to monitor any sudden shifts in the "Volatility Index" that may necessitate a reassessment of the investment strategy.

Conclusion

In conclusion, this report transcends mere historical data; it provides a strategic interpretation of BP's performance within a dynamic market environment. The data presented through our analytical dashboard confirms that the company is on a path of balanced growth and is steadily moving toward a level of financial stability that strengthens its competitive positioning. We trust that these analytical insights will serve as a valuable foundation for your future investment decision-making